Metzler at a glance

Modern corporate structure

The heart of Metzler is B. Metzler seel. Sohn & Co. Aktiengesellschaft, Germany's oldest private bank with an unbroken tradition of family ownership since its establishment in 1674. Metzler focuses on providing individual services to corporate and institutional clients as well as discerning private individuals in four main business areas

- Asset Management
- Capital Markets
- Corporate Finance
- Private Banking.

These business activities are performed by the bank and its affiliates, which operate as independent legal entities under the auspices of B. Metzler seel. Sohn & Co. Aktiengesellschaft. Metzler is active in Germany and abroad with headquarters in Frankfurt/Main and offices or subsidiaries in Hamburg, Düsseldorf, Munich, Stuttgart, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Seattle, Tokyo and Beijing.

Preserving our independence is pivotal to success

In order to apply this principle to the benefit of our clients, Metzler's approximately 800 employees concentrate on fields where they can provide services which rank among the international leaders. Traditional lending and deposit business only plays a subordinate role at Metzler.

Editorial

Unfortunately, 2022 has to be categorized as an "annus horribilis". The war that broke out in Ukraine, and thus on European soil, was a major event that is still causing enormous human suffering. It has had far-reaching economic consequences and affected energy supplies all over Europe, causing energy prices to go through the roof. In addition, record-high inflation rates and concerns about recession preoccupied the capital markets in 2022.

Despite these extremely adverse circumstances, we were able to record pleasing overall business performance in 2022. Our four business areas, Asset Management, Capital Markets, Corporate Finance and Private Banking, developed generally positively and in some cases, we even exceeded our own expectations. Net interest income, for example, was significantly better than forecast at the beginning of the year, and net fee and commission income was slightly above the previous year's level.

At the beginning of 2023, we made some important changes to ensure successful further development for Metzler Bank. The Executive Board was expanded to include Stefanie Buchmann, formerly Chief Representative, and Franz von Metzler. This means the Metzler family is once again represented in the bank's management. We are extremely glad to be able to announce this, as it underlines the great trust and close ties between the Metzler family and the bank. This summer we plan to take the next step: from 1 July of this year, Gerhard Wiesheu will become Spokesman of the Executive Board. He will replace Emmerich Müller, who, at 67, will pass the baton on. As primus inter pares (first amongst equals), Emmerich Müller accompanied Metzler Bank for several years and will remain closely connected.

Development of Metzler's business areas

Total assets in the Asset Management division amounted to EUR 69 billion at year-end 2022, compared with EUR 80 billion the previous year. As expected, this development reflects the strong market turbulence to which the entire fund industry was exposed. Metzler Pension Management performed particularly well in this environment. As a solutions provider for corporate pension models, we successfully established the first social partner model approved in Germany in 2022. As of the balance sheet date, Metzler Pension Management advised almost 300 companies with more than 100,000 pension relationships. This resulted in total investments for the account and risk of employees and employers of over EUR 11 billion.

In our Capital Markets division, business in traditional equity brokerage went very well. Once again, we significantly increased our commission income. We expanded our research client base and provided extensive analyses to support issuance in both equity research and, for the first time, fixed income research. Despite a very challenging capital market environment, the Corporate Solutions department supported a share buyback and two capital increases. In cooperation with Crédit Agricole CIB, we supported the IPO of Porsche AG. In addition, the Corporate Solutions department successfully executed the first bond issue for Katjes Greenfood. In bond trading, we consolidated our business results at almost the previous year's level and significantly expanded our new client base. In Currency Management, we entered new foreign markets. Forex trading made a significant contribution to the overall result. Here we served internationally active corporate clients and developed flexible collateral solutions for institutional investors.

Fiscal year 2022 was very successful for our Corporate Finance division. We were able to escape the rather restrained trend on the M&A market and to complete several transactions as exclusive M&A advisor in various sectors. We assisted mainly family-owned companies, financial investors and international enterprises on both the buy and sell sides. Our M&A business was – and continues to be – extremely active, as many companies were reconsidering their business portfolios or seeking succession solutions for their businesses due to changes in the business environment. This caused significant demand for high-quality, personalized advice. Our clients particularly appreciated our many years of M&A experience, high level of discretion and commitment, and direct access to interesting investors.

In our Private Banking division, the funds entrusted to us performed positively last year. Our clients benefited once again from our active asset management approach. On the equities side, we were less invested compared to the global market, and the sector focus was more defensive than the year before. In bonds, a short duration helped to limit losses drastically. In 2022, adverse effects from the coronavirus gradually subsided in the business world, and we were able to resume in-person discussions with our clients. In terms of topics, our discussions focused primarily on the war in Ukraine, the energy crisis, inflation, and the interest rate turnaround.

Outlook

The challenges have rarely been so complex in recent decades. They range from geopolitical risks like the Ukraine war, which unfortunately continues unabated, and tensions in Asia to the trend toward diversification of supply chains and demographic developments.

We therefore expect the outlook for the overall economy to deteriorate further compared to the previous year. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) forecasts below-average global economic growth of 2.7 percent. In the USA, numerous leading indicators, such as the inverted yield curve, low consumer confidence and headwinds on the real estate market, point to an imminent – possibly moderate – recession. For Europe, the economic outlook goes hand in hand with the energy crisis, and recession risks remain high despite government subsidies. Although the supply chain problems are gradually being resolved and supply bottlenecks may be eliminated, there are now increasing signs of a slowdown in global demand. In China, on the other hand, the economy is expected to recover in the course of the year thanks to government support measures, even for the real estate market, and subsiding Covid-19 case numbers.

The decisive factor for the bond markets will be the development of interest rates and thus the further course of inflation and the reaction of the central banks. Should the inflation rate gradually start to decline, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) could raise the key interest rate to 5 percent by the middle of the year and leave it there for the second half of the year. The European Central Bank (ECB) is likely to raise rates to 3.5 percent. However, interest rates are also a key parameter for the equity markets. Reaching the previous highs in the various valuation measures is unlikely unless yields fall significantly. Upside potential for equities this year therefore depends primarily on the earnings performance of companies, which could come under pressure from two sides: weakening overall economic demand on the one hand and increasing cost pressure for most businesses on the other. On the forex market, the temporary low in the EUR/USD exchange rate is probably behind us. The strength of the US dollar last year was due mainly to the Fed's more aggressive stance compared to the ECB.

Recent events in the banking sector, both in the USA and Europe, have once again caused increased volatility and uncertainty on the capital markets. These risks illustrate that a healthy business model coupled with adequate capitalization, sufficient liquidity and effective risk management are crucial for a stable banking sector – and thus for market confidence. We therefore believe we are well equipped for the future due to our persistently high capital base and traditionally stable liquidity cushion coupled with our conservative business culture and high level of robustness.
